Olympic efforts inspire us all

There are many people like me, have been glued to television watching the Olympic Games for the past three months, far from being jealous of people enjoying the glorious sunshine and soaring temperatures in Greece, you cannot fail to be inspired by the efforts of athletes from all over the globe.

Not giving every last ounce of effort to become the Olympic champion in their chosen sports, which is the fact that most seem to end up at the end of their contest.

Notably, among our British athletes, I have seen a man as formidable as a champion winning his fourth rowing medal and then breaking down as he receives his accolade.

Do you think the Butterfly Pre-school webcam is a good idea?

"IT'S A GREAT idea because it reassures parents their children are safe, happy and well looked after.

"It should be compulsory in all nurseries around the country and I would love it if my children had that facility at their nursery."

"IT'S A REALLY good idea as long as there is a password and the site is very secure.

"I would be worried about hackers and potential paedophiles gaining access to the site.

"However, I would consider taking my child to a nursery if they had a camera as long as it was monitored and secure."

"I HAVE a friend whose little one attends the nursery and she regularly logs on to the net to check on her:

"I wouldn't enrol my child at a nursery just on the grounds they had a camera, but I would take it into consideration.

"I would be concerned about how secure the webcam was on the internet."

NICOLA APPELGATE, 38

"IF IT is a secure camera and website and only the parents can log on I don't see a problem.

"We like to be really involved with our children, so any excuse to interact with them more is great.

"It would be really good for parents because they could check on their children from work and still feel involved."
